National 4-H Conference

April 6-11, 2019

WHAT IS NATIONAL 4-H CONFERENCE?

National 4-H Conference is the Secretary of Agriculture's premier youth development opportunity to engage youth in developing recommendations for the 4-H Youth Development Program. If you want to strengthen your leadership and/or citizenship projects, this is an excellent opportunity.

National 4-H Conference is a working conference in which youth and adults--at the invitation of the Secretary of Agriculture--assist in the development of recommendations to help guide 4-H Youth Development Programs nationally and in their communities. This event brings together youth, volunteer leaders, and state and county Extension staff members from across the United States, the U.S. Territories, and the Canadian Provinces.

As the sponsor for this conference, the National 4-H Headquarters--located within Families, 4-H, and Nutrition at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA's) National Institute of Food and Agriculture (NIFA) --is charged with sharing the recommendations that emerge from the conference with the Secretary of Agriculture, national Extension Program Leaders, and others who determine 4-H programming. Each delegate chooses an important societal topic to discuss in a roundtable situation with other delegates. From the roundtable discussion, the groups prepare a briefing to present to federal stakeholders. This experiential approach ensures that the conference is a meaningful experience for the youth and adult participants. Social activities in the evening, tours of monuments and museums and cultural entertainment round out the conference.

The quotes on the next page provide a true youth perspective of the experience!

PAST NATIONAL 4-H CONFERENCE PARTICIPANT COMMENTS:

The following comments are direct quotes from Texas 4-H members who have attended National 4-H Conference.

The 2016 National 4-H Conference overall was an amazing experience that I would recommend to anyone that has an interest in a hands-on view of the United States' government, leadership, and culture. Overall, this opportunity helped to further my development in professional communications, networking, and collaboration within a diverse and accomplished group.

I believe it is safe to say that the roundtable sessions were a primary focus of the conference, as the groups would later be presenting to varying congressional committees. With that mentioned the roundtable session topics covered a wide range and included the interests of every participant. I was very involved in my topic, "The Importance of Agriculture" because it is my personal mission to be a leader in the agricultural community. Due to this, I was very pleased when our facilitator challenged us to search for the most important issues opposing the future of agriculture. This required outside research and use of my applied knowledge. Shelby Lepley, Walker County, District 9

National conference was, without a doubt, one of my favorite 4-H experiences. I learned an immense amount about a plethora of different subjects. I got to work with amazing people from across the world and work with the government to improve subjects directly related to youth and America's future.

Of course, I learned a large amount in preparing my briefing to the Department of State. I advanced my public speaking skills and my research skills in preparing for my briefing. Furthermore, I learned a lot about having to collaborate with a group in order to make a presentation excellent. Time management was also put to the test as we put together a lengthy and detailed presentation in a rather short amount of time. The workshops we attended were also extremely useful. I learned about various leadership styles as well as how to resolve conflict. Something I learned that particularly stuck out was about 4-H across the nation. The program varies significantly from state to state. Even though Texas program is by far the best, from what I learned, there are certainly things we can learn from other state's programs. Dylan Sione, Gillespie County, District 10

National 4-H Conference was one of the highlights of my 4-H career. Being surrounded by so many like-minded 4-Hers who shared the same passion and love I have for leadership and service. The week was packed full of round tables, key note speakers, workshops, recreation and presentations. I would highly recommend National 4-H Conference to members who are ready to be pushed outside of their comfort zones in order to become a better leader. This was an experience I will always remember. The week began with awkward hellos to complete strangers from all over the United States, Canada, and Puerto Rico and ended with bittersweet goodbyes. Lyndi Luttrull, Wise County, District 3
