Courtlyn has bought her first big girl home! She is planning to host a housewarming party for her closest 8 friends. For Christmas, she received a new pellet grill and is ready to put it to good use on her new patio. She wants everyone to have at least 8 oz. of meat per person; she's okay with leftovers! Her friends have agreed to bring sides, so she is comfortable spending money to get good quality meat to celebrate the occasion. She's excited to host her friends and is happy to serve them something they don't eat every day. But, they hope to have time to do other activities and don't want to be stuck cooking all day. What cut of meat is best for Courtlyn's housewarming party?
